

ABSTRACT

Apparatus, and an associated method, for determining an allowable packet size of data packets communicated by a mobile host to a correspondent host. Path MTU discovery is performed at a network-based proxy on behalf of the mobile host. Once the path MTU is 5 determined, an ICMPv6 message is sent to the mobile host to inform the mobile host of the allowable packet size.